“Welcome to the Australian Grand Prix!

00:09

I mean it's the first race of the year, you remember, I can also do my part a little bit as a driver because it's especially hard on the brakes.

00:16

There are many big braking zones and that's something which becomes even more difficult this year because you can't actually tell me how to manage my brakes now via radio.”

“That's my biggest worry.”

“What do you mean it's your biggest worry?”

“Well I know you can be trusted and you can entirely grasp the importance of looking after the car to get the finish.”

“So it's always quite a big challenge reliability wise especially this year because we've had the least ever amount of testing.”

“I feel more confident than ever before, but also weary of ever being too confident. So we have got to avoid arrogance that leads to over-looking the obvious or unidentifiable problems. But it feels like it's going to be a great year for consistency.

What's your highlight of Melbourne?”

“My favorite part of the track is probably Turn 1. After that start finish straight because it's quite a quick corner but very difficult especially at the end of the race, because you got the sun coming down because it's quite a late race. So the sun drops down and it's right in front of you, makes visibility very difficult. I actually had my first ever F1 podium there a long long time ago, in 2008. So excited to get there and finally see where we are if we were able to win the race or not, and I hope you keep your fingers crossed and enjoy the race weekend.”
